

Ideas from cuckoo land

DO you not sometimes wonder from which cloud cuckoo land some of our councillors have migrated?

There has been the installation of the white elephant (fish) for $100,000 and the grant for Project Respect, which has nothing to do with Monash.

And eight councillors are attending a conference at the Hyatt.

In spite of the fact that our councillors seems to have an excess of money to throw around, they found it necessary to raise the costs of home care, personal care, Meals on Wheels and rates.

It's time they were held accountable for their actions.

For the people?

MONASH Council seems to forget that its job description is that of public servant.

It has been an unmitigated disaster for all but Glen/Mount Waverley. If it is legally possible, other areas should look into the possibility of seceding from this bunch of attention-seeking, self-promoting, overpaid individuals.

Monash Journal Pool delays Jan, 2007.

SINCE 2002, we have seen delay after delay by those councillors who pretend to support the redevelopment of the Oakleigh pool.

At a council meeting on December 12, Cr Dimopoulos proposed an amendment of a fifth option to the council report, which had four options to go to the community for consultation.

Cr Dimopoulos chaired the consultative committee and was responsible for the report that went to council.

So why did he not have this option included? This will cause further delays while it has to be costed before going out for consultation.

This resolution was lost, thank goodness.
