

Snobby numbers

HOW amusing that residents who have bought into the enclave of Waverley Park should now want to dissociate themselves from the historic area of Mulgrave, one of Victoria's earliest shires.

The uniqueness of the building design of Waverley Park does indeed deserve to be separated from the rest of Mulgrave.

It is an eyesore and perhaps 0000 would be an appropriate postcode for such snobbery.

Give us a break, Cr Paul Klisaris. Who buys a property on the promise of a new postcode?

Robert Carter, Mulgrave

Pool a bomb?

DEAR councillor, this is the mechanic you employed to fix your car. It's a fine old motor from a bygone wind-in-your-hair era. Unfortunately, these old cars are time-consuming and expensive to repair and I can't be bothered. So I've come up with four options for you to consider:

First, a brand new splash pad. What do you mean it's nothing like a car? It has rubber bits.

Second, I'll fix half your car. Maybe just the back half. You want the whole car fixed? Don't you realise I'll have to skim funds and time from other customers to fix the whole car?

Third, I'll fix two-thirds of the car and throw in some air-conditioning to make the deal more attractive. Fourth, we'll dump the car and I'll give you a brand spanking new scooter — you're a small person, a scooter should do you fine. Look, I'll hold on to the car for a couple of years and you can go without while you decide between those options. If you're desperate, I have a nice Ferrari available. It's expensive to run and you have to share it with 100 other people, but any time you want to borrow it just get yourself the 15 kilometres out of town to where it's garaged and squeeze on in.

Yes, I know your dad worked hard to pay for the old car, but it's in my care now and this is all I'm prepared to offer for it.

Regards, Joe,
community mechanic
